Mr. Shirah, Who Lives Near Memphis Church, Instructed by Black Hand Message to Move.

When he found a crude picture of his coffin outlined on a piece of cardboard, which had been wrapped around his gate post, Mr. Shirah, who lives six miles south of Dothan, near Memphis church, got rather excited, and bringing the strange black-hand message to town, showed it to Judge A. C. Crawford and asked for advice. He was considering having warrants issued for certain parties, but abandoned this owing to lack of positive evidence.

Mr. Shirah is said to have told Judge Crawford that he thought he knew who some of the parties were, but he did not know positively, so consequently no warrants have been issued.

According to reports, Mr. Shirah has moved, as he was instructed to do in the anonymous message.

A Unique Invitation.

Mr. Shirah no doubt in his day has received numbers of invitations, but the one found tied to his gate post is the most remarkable he has received. A coffin was roughly outlined on the cardboard, bearing this caption: "This is the picture of your coffin." Below the picture the following words, written roughly with a pencil, were visible:

"Hello, Mr. Shirah. You had better get out of that house by Saturday night. We will learn you some sense. Good-bye. Hope to see you very soon."

No Motive Known.

In so far as if known, no motive has been brought to light explaining why the black-hand message was sent to Mr. Shirah. There is considerable speculation as to why the unidentified parties desired Mr. Shirah to seek new quarters.

WILLIAMS TRIAL TODAY

Wiley Williams was arraigned before Justice of the Peace T. W. Butler today on a charge of having obtained goods and money under false pretenses, proceedings having been instituted by J. R. Keyton. The prosecution was represented by E. H. Hill while O. C. Doster appeared for the defense. After hearing the evidence and arguments, Justice Butler announced he would give his decision at a later date.

COTTON OFF.

Cotton declined today. This morning it hovered around 3 cents but was down to about 8 cents before the market closed.

The government's report gives the condition of the crop as 69.2 for August and 75.3 for July as compared with 78 for August, 1914.

O. R. Morgan and daughter Louise and son DeForest, returned Sunday morning from a visit to Savannah, Ga.

I. S. Carroll, Dothan route 1 farmer, was here today on business.

The Atlanta and St. Andrews Bay Railway excursion train to Panama City, Fla., stopped a while at Fountain, Fla., as usual Sunday morning, and the passengers watched a fight between two negroes, one of whom was after the other with a large butcher knife. A deputy sheriff appeared, caught one of the negroes and fired at the other one as he ran. The captured negro was carried to Panama City and landed in jail.

On the return trip one man got in an altercation with the conductor, and getting off the train at Hedgesville discharged his revolver.

SEED SELECTIONS

By Jas. A. Wade,
Commissioner of Agriculture and Industries.

If you were to ask me what principle feature in farm management contributed most to my success as a farmer, giving me the large yield and prize winning quality, that produced a reputation from which I was elected Commissioner of Agriculture, I would say, "Seed selection."

You may have fertile soil, well prepared and intensely cultivated, but the yield will be a disappointment unless you plant pure seed selected from the most productive plants of the best quality. The planting seed is the foundation of the crop, and why not start with the very best foundation?

Now is the time to look over the corn yield and select enough ears from the best stalks to plant the crop next year. Such stalks should be of medium height, stout at the base and should have two or more well developed ears midway between top and bottom. The ears should be of medium length and diameter, with small cob, uniform in size and color. The grain should be firm, tight and in straight rows, parallel with the cob. This corn should be placed in a sack and suspended with baling wire in a dark dry place until planting time.

If you are going to plant cotton next year, of course you want to make the largest yield and best quality. In order to do this you must have pure selected seed. A gin run mixture is the lowest stage of retrogression. Each and every farmer should select a planting seed hole from the largest and best developed bolls and the best shaped, earliest and most prolific plants. This cotton should be stored away in the seed and ginned after the rush of ginning is over.

See that the gin machinery is cleaned so as to prevent mixing of seed. To plant seed ginned in the trash of the season will mix 20 per cent of your neighbor's seed with yours and cause inter-breeding and retrogression.

Allow me to impress forcibly upon your minds the importance of pure selected seed as the basis, quality, yield and final suc-

H. Q. Frazier, one of the oldest and best known merchants in Dothan, had an attack of cramps, at Kelly Springs yesterday afternoon, and had not friends rushed to his rescue and taken him out of the water, he might have drowned.

Mr. Frazier had been enjoying the refreshing water of the springs. It is believed that he remained in the water too long, thus presumably causing the "cramps" to get him. After he was taken out of the water, he soon recovered.

HOBDOY TO TALK FOR TEACHERS

By Emmet A. Jones
Chief of Immigration and Markets Bureau.

J. B. Hobdy, State Supervisor of rural school, will be in Dothan tomorrow and will make an address at the Teachers Institute, at the High School building, tomorrow morning. Mr. Hobdy is an interesting speaker and handles his subject capably.

The Teachers Institute was called to order this afternoon at 1:30 o'clock, a large number of teachers, from various parts of the county and adjoining counties, being on hand. Sessions will be held daily.

BLOOD POISONING IN DOG'S LEG:
LIMB AMPUTATED

With one of his legs gone, Pueblo, a pet bull dog, belonging to Jeff Adkins is convalescing at the home of his master, and seems to be getting along well enough.

It may be said in passing that Pueblo is a pet, and has a knack of making friends. When the dog got in an accident, he sustained a serious wound in one of the legs, and it wouldn't long before blood poisoning set in. In most instances the dog would have been killed, but not so with Jeff Adkins, who is very fond of the pet.

Adkins saw Dr. E. B. Whitfield and told him he wanted him to save the dog. The doctor did not know, but he realized there as one chance—the knife, so he performed the operation. The limb was taken off and the wound was treated and now Pueblo is awaiting the outcome of the operation. The dog may recover and he may die, but his friends hope he will recover.

In a game during the baseball season Pueblo made a dash from third base to home plate, with Pasehal, and it is said that the dog confused the catcher, he missed the ball, and Pasehal scored. At any rate, the catcher missed the ball, and the run counted.

Prof. R. H. Sutherland of Webb, is here attending the Teachers Institute.

Yet this farmer is seeking a market for his fresh country eggs, butter, honey, home cured hams and all kinds of good things to eat and he will supply your wants at a reasonable price.

Preparation of farm products and a credit system are the only two things that have stood between the producer and the consumer. The State of Alabama hopes to remove these obstacles.

Much time and attention are being devoted to instructing the producers as to the proper preparation of farm products. As a result, many farmers and especially ladies of the farm, advise this office that they are position to make shipment of produce properly prepared and in the most approved packages.

There are numbers of ways to establish a financial confidence between the producers and growers and the department will be glad to furnish detailed information to anyone interested.

Glenn Sanders, a well known Houston county farmer, was in the city today.

J. W. Baughman has returned from a week's stay at White Springs, Fla.

New York, Aug. 29.—The week's violent revolution of speculative sentiment turned wholly on the Arabic case. Official pronouncements from Berlin aroused hopes of concessions to America that would avoid a rupture of relations. The informal nature of the Berlin assurances and some of the stated conditions left sufficient doubt to give pause later to the rise.

Having retracted the decline that followed the sinking of the British liner, the question then raised of the over-extension of the advance and of excesses in war order stocks recurred. Volatile movements in these issues still were the feature of the market. Steel producers are holding for higher prices and are indicated to expand contracts on the way up. Important buying of the railroads is still lacking.

The copper situation indicated vast improvement, some issues making highest quotations in their history. The advance had its foundation in highest prices abroad.

London exchange broke to the New York level of 4.62%, reviving the problem of means to stabilize rates. Definite plans await the coining of British and French bankers. French importers arranged a banking credit here of $20,000,000, not for war supplies drafts for which may figure in an open discount market in New York. Another big gold shipment was under way at the close of the week.

Probable effects of the cotton contraband order and possible opening of the Dardanelles affected cotton and wheat markets.

TO INSTALL OFFICER

The Western Union Telegraph Company will install a downtown office at Enterprise, the necessary apparatus to be put in at an early date. This will be of much convenience to the patrons there.

J. W. Vicks, who lives near Kelly Springs, was here today.

B. F. Tindell of Cottonwood, was here this morning.

J. W. Williams, good farmer of route 1, was here today.

H. F. Deal, well known citizen of Columbus, was here this morning.

W. H. Temple of route 5, was here today on business.

Mrs. Emma Register of Midland City, was here today shopping.

J. C. Smith of Keyton, was here today.

R. D. Pemberton went to Enterprise today on business.

Mrs. J. M. Jeter and family have moved here from Madrid making their home on Crawford street.

Mrs. J. D. Morrison, wife of the mayor, was here today.

A CHEAP COTTON CROP.
There is one consolation about this year's cotton crop. It matters not if it does sell for less than ten cents, it is going to pay many debts. The farmers have made a crop of cotton that didn't cost them so much as the last year's crop did. If a man made ten bales to the plow last year, and spent eight of them as expenses, he isn't in as good condition as if he had made 6 and sold them at a lower price, but which cost him much less to make. And nearly every farmer reduced the expense of making his crop fifty per cent. The records show that about half as much fertilizer was used this year as last.

GOING THE WRONG WAY.

The Dothan Eagle remarks that on "Sunday the road to church is filled with auto going the other way." This is true.
The autoing set on Sunday is growing to be a great drawback to church going. A man plans a trip for his family in his auto for Sunday and the little boys and girls who are accustomed to go to Sunday School on that day get so looking forward to the time when Sunday comes so that their father can take them on a fifty or a hundred mile auto ride and they soon think more of these trips than they do of the Sunday School. This is a problem that the churches will have to meet sooner or later.

It is all right to go autoing, but they should not be allowed to interfere with the duties that a man and his family owe to the church. When a man once commences to neglect his church attendance, it does not take much of an excuse to induce him to keep up the habit. What our wiregrass contemporary says about the autos going away from the churches is too true.—Montgomery Times.

What Shall Be Done With the Professors Among the Poor?

(From E. W. Howe's Monthly.)
I have received a letter from a gentleman named Gardner, who says he is "inexpressibly saddened" because of some of my opinions.

Mr. Gardner is an "Advanced Thinker," and here are some of the advanced laws he advocates:

1. A law prohibiting any man from working more than three and a half hours a day;
2. A law driving all banks out of business;
3. A law providing that any marriage be cancelled at the request of both parties to it;
4. Abolition of the United States senate, house of representatives, supreme court, offices of president and vice president;
5. All laws enacted previous to 1860 to run out in 1915;
6. A popular vote on the making of a new Bible;
7. A law making a half dollar a dollar, and a quarter a half dollar.

These are only few of the reform measures suggested by Mr.
Gardner, but all are equally absurd.

Mr. Gardner is so unusual a character that I have taken pains to look him up.

As I suspected, he amounts to nothing.

He does not work, and is a sociologist and agitator. That he is a fool, his platform of principles indicates:

That he is a loafer is plainly indicated by the fact that he advocates a law prohibiting any man from working more than three and a half hours a day; every such man is a loafer in practice as well as in theory. Any man of intelligence knows that we need longer hours rather than shorter hours.

What should be done with a man like Gardner?

In certain states, insane and vicious persons are treated in such a manner that they may not reproduce their kind. Should not the same treatment be accorded men like Gardner? How far are men of this kind removed from actual insanity? Are they not as dangerous as the insane, whom we look up?

The modest fool is not dangerous, but the big fool who lectures and writes, and encourages the timid fools in folly, should be dealt with by the surgeon or state.

WHY HAVE FIRELESS COOKER?

The Service Saves Labor, Time, Cooks Food Better.

By Nellie Tappan, Extension Service,
Alabama Girls Industrial Institute, Montevalle, Ala.

Presented by Extension Service, Auburn, Ala.

1. Saves Time.—Food cooks with no fear of burning, while the house keeper is free to attend to other duties.

2. Saves Fuel.—The breakfast fire may start the vegetables and meat cooking in the fireless for dinner. Fire started at 11:30 a. m. finishes up dinner, and starts hominy or other food for supper in the fireless. This same fire, or supper fire, may start the hominy or rice, or oat meal, for breakfast, and also a roast, ham, tough fowl, stew or soup stock for tomorrow's dinner.

3. Saves Muscular Work.—Unnecessary handling of fuel makes unnecessary motion in cutting, breaking, hauling and lifting. The consequent soiled hands and kitchen cloths must be washed, the consequent extra dirt and dirt brought into the kitchen must be cleaned out.

4. Saves watching the pot, and keeping the tea kettle boiling.

5. Saves fretfulness and worry.

6. Gives some relief from heat over stove in summer. Cooking can be done on back porch with oil stove and fireless cooker.

7. Keeps food cold when packed with ice. Fine for baby's milk.

8. Gives Better Food.—Long, slow cooking means thorough cooking, tenderizes the fiber, and develops extra flavor in cereals, beans, peas, tough meats and other foods; aids digestion. It is one of the best means of cooking for infants and small children.

All this is true or not, according to the housekeeper's management. She must think ahead to keep the fireless cooker constantly at work; she must practice and experiment to find out all the good qualities and all the limitations of a fireless cooker.

PREPARING HOGS FOR MARKET

Peanut Fed Hogs Make Excellent Meat When Finished on Feed For Hardening Off

By J. T. Watt
State Agent for Alabama.

Presented by Extension Service, Alabama.

I believe all the farmers in Alabama would grow hogs for sale if they understood how to market them. As a general rule the market is made in pork producing in the marketing of the hog. The first mistake the farmer makes is in not putting his hog in condition for market at the right age. The hog that is intended for the slaughter house should never be his birthday. In other words, a hog should not be paid on his age. They should be fattened after taxes have been assessed and掌管化 before tax paying time. Of course, we need a packing house to market these hogs through but in the absence of a packing house, the farmer can butcher the hog and pack the meat on his farm and sell the cured product at a premium over western packing house meat. This is being done successfully in several sections of the South and can be done in Alabama. To do this successfully you must have cooperation and organization. By having cooperation you establish a uniform type in a county and a standard grade for your bacon and ham. Put only the best grade of hams and bacon on the market—and you can make the best in the world—put your name brand on the product advertised it will sell under a guarantee until your trade is established and when the consumer finds out what fine flavored bacon and magnificent juicy ham can be produced in Alabama they will buy only Alabama raised hams.

A combination of rape, peanuts and sweet potatoe with corn added two weeks before butchering makes the finest flavored bacon and ham in the world. They always taste like meat. If the packing house will not pay you the market price for your hams because they are peanut fed, then you must be compensated and I will consider a premium over cornfed pack hog houses.

The hog crop in Alabama is the best crop ever grown as a substitute for cotton and is as quick as cotton. Cotton is so much that we can produce pork in Alabama cheaper than in any place in the world. In many areas of the United States now there is an abundance of hogs because new vegetables money is plentiful and land mortgages are not as record.

THE DEBONING OF CATTLE

Not a Dangerous Operation If Proper Precautions Are Taken.

By R. S. Parker,
Demonstration Agent, Chambers County

Presented by Extension Service, Alabama.

The deboning of cattle is a practice which rapidly grows in favor wherever introduced and there is every reason for putting it out of their power to turn their horns against their owners and against each other.

A good job can be done with an ordinary hand-saw. It is very slow however, compared to the shears greatly prolonging the pain of the animal. Using the saw the animal must be rigorously secured which increases the danger of injury from its struggles especially with cows heavy with calf.

There are several types of deboning shears on the market. The best has the V-shaped knives which sever the bone by sliding past each other cutting the bone in two sides at once. In deboning it is very important to cut the bone as close to the horn as possible.

Some cattle however have in their system of slender bones of long extending in all directions across the hollow core of the horn. Sometimes one of these little bones is split red and left loose or slightly attached. If this loose splinter is pulled off before the wound is dressed, no bad results will follow.

After the horn is removed a small patch of clean cotton flannel is tugh over the wound with the top side in. Plain pine tar is then smeared over the cloth and on the hair around the wound and if possible some of the long hair on the top of the head to cover over the cloth and stuck there with the tar. This makes the cloth lie on better. Some of the salts will knock the dressing off. They should be caught again as soon as the bleeding stops and the dressing renewed. Scrub the base of the horn and the instrument used thoroughly with an antiseptic solution before the operation. In most cases the wound will heal perfectly in a short time for cattle are less susceptible to the parasitic worms than most animals.

If maggots enter a wound they should be killed with a few drops of chloroform, and the wound treated with peroxide to kill out the pus and then sutured out with an antiseptic solution every day or so until healing takes place.

If deboning is done soon after pigs are born, weather sets in in the spring, or just after the frost in autumn there will be little danger from flies and all other conditions are most favorable for rapid recovery.

Flies are almost certain to get in in midsummer and if the work is done in very cold windy weather there is danger of serious inflammation which may prove fatal.

At the age of two or three weeks deboning is a very slight and almostainless operation. The method consists in slightly moistening the horn button and then rubbing round and round with a stick of caustic polish or caustic soda until the skin is noticed to scrub up a little. The stick should be wrapped in paper to protect the fingers. Common concentrated lye will do the work if applied with a very short and steady stroke.

TIME TO SOW BUR CLOVER

Bowing in the Bur Should be Earlier Than in the Hulled Seed

By J. F. Dugger, Director of Extension Service

Presented by Extension Service, Alabama.

Bur clover seed, if in the bur should be sown earlier than any other growing soil improvement plant.

Bur clover seed is found on the market in two different conditions that is (1) unhulled or in the bur and (2) as hulled seed. The time of sowing hulled and unhulled seed is quite different.

Bur clover sown in the bur unless sown requires a long time for the soil to become closely settled into close contact with the seed. Only after the packing of the soil around the seed does germination become good.

Bur clover seed in the bur, whether of the Southern or of the California species should be sown in central Alabama as soon after September 1st as practicable.

If the seed are scalded as shown in the Alabama Experiment Station at No. 21 the date of sowing is but two or three weeks later.

Scalded or cleaned bur clover seed is best if it has completely dried out of the California variety, certain trees and shrubs, such as cypress, live oak, etc., are best suited for this purpose.

LETTER TO EDITOR

Dothan Eagle

It has not dawned upon many of the people of this town how much is at stake in getting a first class commercial organization at work here. Next year this city will perhaps not make half a crop of cotton. What else must the farmers plant? Does anybody know of a better plan or a more definite plan or any plan at all other than that which was outlined in our paper a few days ago. This plan was simple so far as its adaptation was concerned and needs only sufficient time with competent head to give us sufficient markets for other staple crops.

Dothan will see this thru through the town which put it all over a hill league this year.

Will surely take steps to keep the wheels turning and help us have still better fall next year.

I would suggest the clerks of Dothan have as much at stake as anybody we want our same jobs and better jobs next fall and I suggest that a canvass be made among the clerks in Dothan to see what their supply.

While the average amount will be small perhaps, I think nearly every one will help some. Yours for business and progress,

The whole apartment thru.

Four rooms there are of goodly size, and erstwhile there have been as many tenants lodging there As there is space within.

Their application flattered me—
I hated to decline,
So portioned each his work inside
This roomy heart of mine.

And now I find four occupants
Too many are for me—
Since peacefully they will not

HASTENING GERMINATION OF SOUTHERN BUR CLOVER

Bulling Seed Secures Better Stand and Makes Later Planting Possible.

By H. B. Tisdale, Astatotlan in Agriculture.

Prepared by Extension Service, Auburn, Ala.

Before the seed of Southern bur clover are planted they should be boiled for one minute. This is necessary in order to hasten germination and to secure a good stand.

Three vessels containing water, and a pot of boiling water, are necessary for the treatment. The bags of bur, in convenient quantities for handling, are first placed in vessel No. 1 containing cool water and rinsed in order to remove the bacteria for refection. Then the seed are placed for a few minutes in vessel No. 2, containing hot water, to prevent sudden fall of temperature in the boiling water. The seed are then placed in the boiling water and boiled for one minute, after which they are placed in vessel No. 3, containing cold water.

When the bur are sufficiently cooled, they are dipped again in vessel No. 1 for refection. The bur should then be spread out in a shaded place to dry. If the weather is too damp for the bur to dry out rapidly they should be sown in the field.

After this treatment the seed may be planted as late as crimson clover.

SALT FINE FOR ACHING KIDNEYS

We Eat Too Much Meat Which Clogs Kidneys, then The Back Hurts.

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, Reid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean, and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region, get about 4 ounces of Jad Salts from many good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is harmless to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity. It also neutralizes the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is harmless, inexpensive, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everybody should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean, thus avoiding serious complications.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

PENALTIES OF AGE

By Walt Mason, in the Emporia (Kan.) Gazette.

"I envy the young people," sighed the merchant. "They can eat green corn off the cob, which is the only way to eat. I am passionately fond of roastin' ears, but I have to trim the corn off with a knife, and then eat it with a spoon, for most of my teeth are loose."

"That's just one of the penalties of old age," said the hotel-keeper. "It's a surprising thing that you ever find cheerful old people, they have so much to be wail and regret. Every time I see a young man I experience a sinking sensation in the pit of my stomach. I say to myself that I'd give a million dollars to be where he is in the matter of years and health, and the young don't appreciate their own good fortune.

"When I was a young man there never was anything the matter with me, and I took the fact as a matter of course. I didn't know I had any organs in me, so far as sensation went.

Now my vitals always are clamoring for recognition, and every one makes itself unpleasant so it won't be overlooked.

I'm always going to see the doctor, and every time I go he robs me of a few of my privileges and comforts.

Only this morning he told me I would have to quit drinking coffee altogether, or some fine morning I'd wake up and find myself a corpse as a result of heart failure.

"Get some bran and molasses," said he, "and bake them together in an oven, and they will make a good substitute for coffee." And that sizes up the difference between youth and age.

It's bran and molasses for the patriarch and rich, aromatic coffee for the stripling, doggone it.

Young people, as a rule, don't care much for coffee, and don't appreciate it. A man must live many years before he becomes a connoisseur in coffee. And when he reaches that commanding eminence, the sawhorses comes along and tells him to eat it out. An old man thinks more of his coffee than he does of his halibut, and so he must not drink it, as it will send him to an untimely grave.

"Oh, this thing of getting old is the biggest tragedy in the world, and the worst of it is that the victims get no sympathy from the young, who can eat their corn from the cob with their own teeth."
